

Justin Wilmott Bio

I was born and raised in Waynesboro, Virginia, and aside from one year away in college, I have spent my entire life here. I have been married to my wife, Danielle, for eight years, and together we are raising our two daughters, Mila and Remi, who are my greatest blessings and motivation.

For nearly four years, I have worked at Shenandoah Valley Juvenile Center. I truly love what I do because every day gives me an opportunity to work with young people, help guide them, and hopefully make a positive impact on their lives.

I earned my degree in Audio Engineering from Full Sail University and also earned my CDL from Blue Ridge Community College. I am always proud of the different paths and experiences that have helped shape me.

Most importantly, I would describe myself as a family man. My goal is to build a legacy my family can be proud of—a legacy centered around giving, helping others, working hard, and doing the right thing.
